

Henry Radford Is New Owner of the McCarrier Store

Henry Radford of this city has purchased from W. W. Ellis his cigar, tobacco and candy store, located at 140 Pacific avenue, which was formerly known as McCarriers' Cigar Store. There is also splendid club rooms connected with the store, and this department has lately been fitted out in very neat and attractive fashion, making it one of the most popular gathering places for men in this city.

Radford is experienced in this line of endeavor and only caters to those who wish to conduct themselves in a gentlemanly manner about the premises and hopes to attract more patrons by this method than any other plan.

A modern lunch counter and fountain service will be maintained.

The business deal was closed yesterday and Radford is now in possession of the business, as announced in his advertisement in this issue of The Sentinel.

Syracuse police "respectfully declined" the mayor's proposal for a 10 per cent voluntary reduction in salary. The mayor threatened to take action.
